

VOGUE

ARTS

Horse of a Different Colour by Rebecca Blair.

FRAMED BAREFOOT IN THE SUPERMARKET

If you love artists Marc Chagall and Gustav Klimt, don't miss British-born Becky Blair's first Australian exhibition. Inexplicably named Barefoot in the Supermarket, her series of paintings are sensuous swaths of soft colours and kooky dreamy shapes. She travels the world for inspiration and has sold work in the UK, France, Bermuda and New Zealand, and the bet is she'll sell very well here, too.

Barefoot in the Supermarket* can be viewed at Gadfly Gallery, 131b Waratah Ave, Dalkeith, WA, from March 14 to April 6.